On any channel in the world today it is possible to find a Catalan animation series. Characters like The Triplets, Scruff, Bernard, Lola & Virginia, Conrad or Soundbugs, among many others, all have their own slots on TV and some have even made their debut on the big screen. Indeed, new in this year's catalogue is the inclusion of feature-length animation for theatrical distribution, such as The hairy tooth fairy (Pérez, el ratoncito de tus sueños), a production funded by the international co-production support programme, Raíces. In 2007's catalogue you will come across productions from previous editions, the success of which has extended their travels through territories the world over and which are now beginning to break in to new platforms such as mobile phones. You will also find new projects in a variety of formats, whether feature-length, shorts or television series. On the other hand, this current compilation of titles will make a first appearance at one of the key events in the animation calendar, the Cartoon Forum, which this year will be held in Catalonia. See you there!

3BB the baby triplets

3BB les tres bessones bebès

Directed by Jordi Muray, Maria Gol

Synopsis:

The discoveries children make during the first five years of their life and their learning during this period are so remarkable and unique that they have provided a vast array of ideas for the making of a series, in which the baby triplets are the leading characters, becoming a reference for the youngest members of the family. Simplicity is the hallmark of the series, the most important element being the interaction among the three girls. Equally, the dialogues of the series are as simple and clear as possible, full of those short but very significant expressions typical of small children of this age.
